VERANDA FURNITURE

THE TIME FOR IT HAS ARRIVED.

To us it seems but a few weeks ago that we were clearing stocks of all Piazza and Reed Furniture preparatory for the winter season. But it was months ago—further proof that time does fly. Now we tell you of the splendid new things in easy and restful pieces of Veranda Furniture for those days when mother nature tempts one to imbibe the outdoor air.

The Veranda is an index to the interior of the house. You can always tell a neatly furnished house by the exterior. We are showing some decided novelties in the way of Three-Piece Suits for the Veranda. They can be seen in our windows today, together with Porch Shades, Swings, Rugs, odd Rockers, Chairs, etc., all the very latest creations for the outside of the house.

Imported Enameled Ware!

The feature is a spout without rivets and without seams. The spout is a part of the seamless tea-kettle body. A seamless spout, of course, eliminates the possibility of leaks or gathering of rust and germs. Leaky spouts are an annoyance to the consumer and costly to the merchant. PYRO-LITE (shown in above cut) is the only Entirely Seamless and Positively Non-Leak Enameled Ware. We are displaying a line of this Enameled Ware in our window, which we cordially invite one and all to inspect.

A Penny Saved.

When Benjamin Franklin wrote "A penny saved is a penny earned," he did not mean a penny skipped from our daily living or from our necessities. That is not "a penny saved" in the best sense. It is a penny stolen from yourself. A penny saved is a penny rescued from waste. An hour taken from needed sleep is not an hour saved, but an hour stolen. An hour taken from idle gossip and turned to some good account—that is an hour saved. And it is the same way with our money and our products. There is no economy in self denial. It is the duty of every man and woman to live the fullest and best life possible, to get the most they can out of life, to nourish the body and mind and soul and to develop them to the highest possible degree. This cannot be done by skimping. Economy is necessary, but we must not mistake what economy is. We must save the wastes, stop the leaks; but, having saved, we must put our savings to some good use, else we are like the miser with his gold—a detriment to society instead of a good.—Exchange.

The London Police Whistle.

What is the most powerful weapon a man can carry against the possible dangers of nocturnal London? For general utility and for special emergencies you cannot—at least such is one night rambler's experience—beat the ordinary police whistle. In addition to its services as a call—there are times, happily extremely rare, when it may prove a tower of strength. One such occasion the writer can recall. About two hours after midnight in a quiet way. An agitated elderly gentleman at an open door, which he is afraid to enter. The lock has been forced, and within may be—burglars! Have you seen a policeman? No. But three blasts on the whistle and the deserted pavement swarms with them. From every corner one arrives, and the house is surrounded. The home going citizen knows not by what forces he is encompassed till he sounds that whistle in his or some one else's emergency.—London Standard.

How Bismarck Kept Up Steam.

In the evening I went to Bismarck's house. I was placed upon the sofa in front of a table covered with tascups and bottles of beer and also with herrings and oysters. His new highness (Bismarck) speedily arrived and sat down by me. He began by consuming innumerable oysters, herrings and ham and drank beer with soda water.—Hohenlohe Memoirs.
